VELKOMMEN TIL YAYA'S THAI BEACH BUNGALOWS!

THE NAME

Ya" means grandmother (paternal), while Yai means your maternal grandmother. "YaYa" could be a nickname for grandmothers in general, or perhaps a nickname for someone else. We are quite certain about this. Translations from Thai can be difficult, in general one might say that the result depends on your tone of voice and on who is translating, or both. For instance "mai pai" means "don't go" in one tone of voice, and "bamboo pole" in another. It can be handy to know when buying bamboo poles in Thailand. We, however, found the name Yaya's on a beach restaurant on Railay Beach outside Krabi, sometime during the 90's. So the name was already "approved" for restaurant use.

THE IDEA

And that is where our Yaya's story starts, on a white sandy beach in tropical Thailand, on Railay Beach. We had travelled to all these lush places, both the crowded ones and the more hidden beaches all over Thailand; Koh Lanta, Phi Phi, Koh Tao, Koh Samet, Koh Chang, Koh Phangan, the list goes on. Everywhere we found the same calm and relaxed atmosphere, nice people, fantastic beaches, crystal clear waters with tropical fish, bungalows with coconut palm trees stretching over (Be aware of falling coconuts when windy!), small beach restaurants where you could enjoy your food, a good book, a game of cards or discuss world politics with the traveler next to you. What if we could go back and create the same tropical environment in Norway!

AND THEN

In 2003 we went back to Thailand to get some Thai ambiance and decorations. Most of our interior in Yaya's is handpicked and imported from Thailand: furniture, cutlery, pillows, table cloths, elephants, wood carvings and decorations, artificial plants, bamboo poles and parts of the kitchen staff. Since 2003 we have bought almost 30.000 meters of bamboo poles. Also we have one of the larger collections of Tuk-tuks in Norway, one still have its taxi license for Bangkok. Our "bungalows" are self-designed and built in Thailand. They come in different shapes and sizes, the result is normally a combination of our sketches and a discussion between our Thai translator and the carpenter. They do not always come out the way we planned, in case you feel your seat or table is too narrow or wide.

Thai people often look at us in a strange way when we show them pictures of our Yaya's Restaurants, it's not every day they see a piece of Thailand in Norway. However most people like the idea, some have even suggested that it looks more like Thailand than Thailand itself.

WELCOME TO YAYA'S – THE REAL FEELING OF THAILAND!
WE HOPE THAT YOU WILL ENJOY YOUR STAY!
